

For Keyword Research

We need to target the USA, UK, Australia, and Canada in our blog. Our niche is kitchen decor, and I need keywords that people are searching for and want to see information about, and that are also trending. Please provide a list of 10 keywords for this, and also include a table showing which keywords to target for each country.

For Article in chatgpt for Home Decor

Write a 900–1200 word English blog article titled “10 Modern Japanese Living Room Design ideas” The article should read in a natural, conversational, and human tone, as if written by a real lifestyle blogger or interior stylist for an international audience (US/UK/Canada/Australia). The writing must sound warm, friendly, and easy to follow like you’re chatting with a reader who loves beautiful interiors but has limited space. Avoid heavy or formal sentences. Do not use exaggerated or promotional words like “amazing,” “awesome,” “incredible,” “mind-blowing,” “stunning,” “epic,” “fantastic,” “magical,” “secret hack,” “ultimate guide,” “killer tips,” “next-level,” “life-changing,” “must-read,” “perfect solution,” “game-changer,” “unbelievable,” or any similar overused terms. Keep the tone grounded, elegant, and visually descriptive something that feels at home on blogs like Apartment Therapy, Architectural Digest Discover, or Better Homes & Gardens.

Start with a short, friendly introduction (around 100–150 words) that connects with readers and highlights how decorating small spaces can feel challenging yet rewarding. Introduce the main keyword, “Modern Japanese Living Room Design ideas,” naturally once or twice in the opening paragraph. Then, structure the article using clear and engaging H2 and H3 subheadings that include relevant SEO keywords. Each subheading should feel conversational and fit naturally within the flow. Examples of subheadings include "Modern Japanese Living Room Design ideas etc...

Under each subheading, write 1–2 short paragraphs (around 80–120 words each) with practical, realistic, and visually inspiring ideas that readers can imagine and apply. Focus on natural materials, light tones, cozy textures, multifunctional furniture, decluttering, and Japanese-inspired minimalism. Let your descriptions help the reader see the space soft lighting, organized corners, earthy tones, and small decor touches that transform the room.

End the article with a short wrap-up paragraph (about 100–120 words) that encourages readers to get creative with their small spaces. The ending should feel thoughtful and motivating but never use the word “Conclusion.” Keep the flow conversational till the end.

Use SEO keywords naturally throughout the article. The main keyword is “Modern Japanese Living Room Design ideas” use it exactly 10 times within the content. Also include the following secondary keywords where they fit organically: "Modern Japanese Living Room Design ideas, modern japanese living room aesthetic, modern japanese living room, modern japanese living room interior, zen interior design living room modern japanese style, japanese living room ideas modern luxury, Simple japanese living room decor ideas, Japanese living room furniture, Japandi small living room ideas, Japanese living room decor ideas pinterest, Modern Japanese living room design, Modern Japandi living room Ideas, modern living room ideas japandi, japanese living room design ideas, living room design examples, small living room design examples, very small living room ideas, modern small room design ideas, japanese interior design living room etc...

The overall tone and style should be simple, visually rich, and relatable. Write for readers in T1 countries who appreciate aesthetics, functionality, and cozy modern design. Keep sentences short to medium for readability (Grade 8–10 level). Avoid bullet points or numbered lists unless absolutely necessary; use smooth transitions between sections so it reads like a real blog article, not a listicle.

Finally, make sure the output is SEO-optimized, human-sounding, and ready to publish with clean formatting, clear headings, and a balanced flow. The article should feel real, calm, and authentic something readers would want to share or save for later.

I.m.p. Notes: Always remember:

Do not use hyphens at all. I don't like them, and they disturb the reader.

Also, I have provided the article title. Add one or two extra keywords at the end to make the title complete and SEO-friendly. You can pick them from Google's "People Also Ask" section or from search results to add at the end. Don't use this kind of riddle-like phrasing in the article; keep it in a simple, natural flow.